How to uninstall malicious software

Now, we show how to uninstall malicious software. For example, we have program named TuneUp Utilities as we can see in the next picture:

We don't want to have this program in our computer. To get it, we go to Start Menu →
Control Panel. In Control Panel we list the icons by Category and click on Programs.

After this in the section named Programs and Features, we click on Uninstall a Program:

We will get into the next window:

On the next window we could see the program's name which we want to uninstall. Over the program's name, we do click on mouse's right button and select Uninstall. After this, perhaps we could see a message to avoid the uninstallation of the program like this:

We continue with the uninstallation. When this task has been finished, the software will not be in the computer.
